An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

HERE'S A NEW ELIXIR OF LIFE.

ANOTHER TREATMENT TO POSTPONE OLD AGE.

A Missouri Country Physician Has Come Upon an Important Discovery.

USES CELLS FROM GOATS' GLANDS.

The elixir of life sought by explorers and philosophers from Ponce de Leon to Brown-Sequard has at last been found, if the expectations of a country physician from Green City, Mo., are realized. The doctor's name is B. F. Roberts, and so thoroughly has he impressed Chicago physicians who have experimented with his elixir that several have undertaken extensive experiments with the new panacea.

Doctor Roberts is a modest man, who says that he went to Chicago for assistance, because a country practice does not give sufficient opportunity for testing the results of his work. He does not assert that the general outline of his plan is new, but points to several features in its developments which are not only new but decidedly original.

On his farm near Green City, Doctor Roberts has raised a large herd of goats, and it is from these roseate animals that the fluid of youth is to be secured. "Life cells" from the lymphatic glands of goats are removed with great care and preserved from all infection. The preservation of these cells and the maintenance of life in them forms the most valuable feature of Doctor Roberts' method.

These life cells are transplanted to the human body by hypodermic injections. The results, according to Doctor Roberts and his assistants, have been interesting in the extreme, and would seem to justify the claim that old age may be postponed and the disorders of senility avoided by the use of the lymph.

In the institution to be established in Chicago, further experiments will be made. Doctor Alexander C. Wiener assisted Doctor Roberts in some of the experiments conducted in Chicago.

"I do not like to speak of anything of this kind," said he, "because it seems so sensational that it is likely to be disbelieved, and may lead to severe criticism by the profession. I was associated with Doctor Roberts in his experiments in this city, and will carry on some more along the same line. He has taken up the work advanced by Alexander Poehl, of St. Petersburg, and Brown-Sequard, and has made novel and valuable advances. Brown Sequard worked several years upon this problem, and Poehl, who is a well-known physiologist chemist, recently published the results of his own experiments. Poehl took his fluid from young horses and obtained results much similar to ours.

"The general plan of treatment is to find a method of elimination of certain deposits and of oxidation of blood. This will naturally prolong life, for these are the two elements which tend to bring about the state of old age.

"It might be said, perhaps, that the accumulation of phosphates and lime salts in the system and the lack of oxidation in the blood are the factors of old age. Therefore, when it becomes possible to eliminate the salts and continue the oxidization of the blood, it will be possible to defer the period of senility.

"Of course, the same holds true of all the disorders incident to such a state, and the treatment of such disorders will be possible by reaching the cause. Some phases of heart disease and anemia, many forms of chronic rheumatism, and the endless chain of nervous disorders can thus be reached.

"The first case I saw treated by Dr. Roberts impressed me greatly. The patient was a man over sixty years, who had for a long time been suffering from angina pectoris. After the injection of the lymph he recovered. He has lost all of the symptoms and shows remarkable increase of strength.

"The reason for using the goat is that the goat is a healthy animal. Only young goats have been used, and Doctor Roberts has a large herd near his home in Missouri, from which he secured the lymph with which he has been experimenting over twenty years. He is a studious man, and has certainly given no something new and of farreaching importance in his method of maintaining life in the lymph cells after their removal from the animals."

"Do you think this lymph actually prolongs life?" was asked.

"Yes," said Doctor Wiener, "I certainly think so, from the results I have seen."

"How long would one treatment have effect?"

"I should say that one treatment might retain its effect perhaps ten years, and that at the end of that time the injection might be repeated with success.

"I can show you an article from the leading surgical journal of the world in which Professor Poehl says that he has used his remedy with effect in cases of of anæmia, tuberculosis, marasmus, senility, forms of metabolism and uric acid, diathesis, rickets, paralysis and inflammation of the nerves. He testified that the treatment increases the vitality of the nerve elements and enables the organism to resist the attacks of disease.

"We do not wish to give this matter publicity, but do wish to make it known to the medical profession."

Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now fervently trumpled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but bites, boils, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. What Stirred Their Blood.

[Williamsatic, Conn. Journal.]

Bill Jackson, the hero of Wiltimantic, has a story of El Caney. It is about the Twelfth regulars, of which Bill was one. The story dates from the night attack. Capt. Clarke, who was a fine soldier and who seemed never to sleep, was going from the trenches to where the men of his company slept and cried: "To arms! Get up! They are coming at us!"

One or two men sprang to their feet, took up their guns and drowsily rubbed their eyes. The rest slept peacefully on, dreaming of home, perhaps. They were dead tired. Then Capt. Clarke began to swear. We will hope that in the excitement of the occasion, the Angel Gabriel failed to get it down against the Captain. Clarke began to swear and go from man to man, kicking each one in turn. "We are attacked! Rally at the trenches!" he shouted.

But still the weary, fagged out men were slow. They roused, but seemed unable to shake off the meshes of slumber which clogged their brains.

"For God's sake, wake up!" cried the Captain—and then, with a sudden inspiration, he shouted: "Company F, play ball!"

That settled it. The men were wide awake in an instant, and, led by their Captain, every man dashed for the trenches in front of the detail already there, and the enemy was thrust back—as history will tell us.

Pimples, Boils and other Humors appear when the blood gets impure. The best remedy is Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. m

Bright and Brief.

The law of Denmark now gives to Danish subjects, man or women, the right to a pension at sixty years of age, except in case of convicted criminals, paupers, or those who have come to distress by extravagance.

There is a point near the famous Stony Cave, in the Ceiekill Mountains, where ice may be found on any day in the year. This locality is locally known as the North, and it walled in on all sides by step mountains, some more than 3,000 feet high.

Deseglio, an island adjoining Porto Rico, is infested with rats. There are millions of them there, and it is useless for a man to set foot on the island. They have destroyed all the goats, which were formerly bred there and are now eating the shrubbery.

Four cities have always stood wholly or in part on islands. Venice is the best known on account of its historical ties; next comes St. Petersburg, the capital of Russia, and the last two are the cities of Ghent and Amsterdam, situated respectively in Belgium and Holland.

In linguistic attainments the Russians are far in advance of other nations. Their learned and cultured classes appear to have the faculty of acquiring languages specially developed, and can for the most part learn a new language with a fraction of the time and trouble it takes a Briton or any other European.

Soon to Be Out of Debt.

The people of the Providence district, Webster county, are congratulating themselves that they have only one more payment to make on the compromise settlement of the railroad debt of the district and that the pall that has hung over the district for so long will be lifted.

Congressman Botkin's Statement

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 1, 1899.
Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

MY DEAR DOCTOR:—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines.

Hon. J. D. BOTKIN,
Congressman-at-Large from Kansas.

Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted, more or less, for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation; a residence in Washington has increased these troubles.

A few bottles of your medicines have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of their use will effect a permanent cure.

Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections.

J. D. BOTKIN.

MONEY INVESTED IN PRAYER.

WOULD PAY IF PRAYER BROUGHT RAIN—AND IT RAINED.

Lifting the Mortgage on the Church —Commenced as a Joke, But Crops Were Saved.

PRAYER WAS A GOOD INVESTMENT.

[San Francisco Cor. St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

H. H. Pitcher, capitalist, financier, fruit grower and President of the Bank of Livermore, Cal., has just made the nicest business turn in his life. He bought $300 worth of prayer stock and within a week it netted him thousands of dollars profit.

The stock was watered, but Livermore Valley was also a few hours later and thereby hangs this true tale of terrestrial negotiations with Providence.

Moreover, that thirsty expanse of grain-producing territory was soaked with four inches of rain—precisely the amount stipulated for in the extraordinary contract fo which Banker Pitcher figured as the party of the first part.

The whole transaction started in a joke. A woman began it.

Here is the story of Livermore Valley's merciful escape from disaster by drouth. Whether the rain descended and the floods came in answer to Presbyterian and Methodist prayers, or whether the needed down-pour resulted from natural causes, is a matter about which the valley people are not concerning themselves.

In all California there is not a prettier spot than Livermore Valley. It's almond and olive orchards, its vineyards, its fields of undulating grain, its charming country homes, form a cheerful picture of agricultural prosperity when the clouds are kind in winter. Through the valley winds the

FINEST COUNTRY ROAD

In the State, the delight of travelers a-foot, a-horseback and a-wheel. From the vines on the dimpling foothills to the purple mountains beyond, and across the wide sweep of the vale, there is scenery such as painters love to put to canvas, and which this blundering pen of mine would better not attempt to portray.

Livermore is the center of distribution at this Eastern end of Almeda county. There are 1,500 people within Livermore's limits. The men with the hoe in Livermore Valley come to town with a shipment of shelled almonds at $7,000 per carload, or wine by the thousands of gallons, or wagonloads of barley. His family has access to a public library of 4,000 volumes. He is proud of this hustling town with its cement sidewalks and friendly shade trees and fragrant gardens.

The valley is famous for its hay.

A dry year meant millions of dollars lost to that lossliy alone. It meant hard times for the Bank of Livermore. It meant that the only kind of crops maturing would be a crop of mortgages.

One evening Mrs. A. L. Fuller dropped in to pay Mrs. H. H. Pitcher, a neighborly call. The banker was gloomily pacing the halls of his handsome residence. They talked on the only subject of interest to any of them just then—the

FATALLY LOVELY WEATHER.

Mrs. Fuller is a teacher in the public school and a zealous worker in the Methodist church. Neither the distress of the nanelly jovial banker, she gmilingly suggested that he pray for what he wanted.

"Do you really believe that praying for rain will bring it?" he asked.

"I do," was the reply.

"Then the sooner you start in the better," said the banker with businesslike promptness. "Give me four inches of rain within the next two weeks and I'll cancel the Methodist church indebtedness."

"Honor bright?" breathlessly inquired the little bine-eyed school ma'am, who believed fn the efficacy of prayer.

"Honor bright," said the big black-eyed banker, who hadn't a shred of faith fn prayer petitionings, but who was growing desperate at the critical situation.

By the next morning he had forgotten all about the queer bargain, but little Mrs. Fuller immediately went home by the shortest cut and commenced praying as soon as she got there.

That was on Sunday. Last Tuesday it began to rain in good earnest. Meanwhile the news of the banker's offer had spread throughout the town. The good sisters of the Methodist church went on their knees to the rescue. So did the brothers. Then the congregation of the only other Protestant church in town, the Presbyterian, which had, no doubt, joined in on general principles.

THE PRAYERS AROSE,

The barometer fell. The faster the one went up, the steadier the other went down.

Between prayers the good sisters kept tab on the rain gauges. One—two—three—three and a half inches were registered. The highwater mark had reached three and three quarters, when Mrs. Fuller met a tall man with an umbrella coming down the street.

"Another quarter of an inch," said she, gleefully, "will wipe out that debt."

"Oh, no," protested the banker, skeptically. "There must be something wrong with those rain gauges."

But when Friday came the record showed the four inches, with a few hundreds over just for luck.

Banker Pitcher's prayer stock was above par.

Such rejoicing was never known in Livermore. The Methodist sisters held an informal jubilee. The mortgage had been a millstone around their necks ever since the church was organized. In vain had they tried to cancel it. There had been church fairs and lemonade socials and grab-bag soirees and pink-tea fights, but the mortgage wouldn't down. And now a few days of good hard praying had not only fed the church, but brought joy to everybody in the valley.

Now it happened that Mr. Pitcher was a Deacon, though not a communicant of the Presbyterian church. When he had paid up the last penny of the Methodist debt, there rose a mild expostulatory

MURMUR FROM THE OTHER SIDE.

Was it quite fair that one church only should be remembered, when both had prayed?

True, the Presbyterians had no debt. But they had no lawn, either. They looked wistfully across lots at the emerald square, tidily trimmed, that beautified the other church's surroundings. And the paint was peeling and coming most shabbily on the Presbyterian edifice, while the other shone with spick-span, immaculate whiteness after its bath of rain.

The murmurs reached the banker's ears. To hear was to heed. No one should accuse him of narrow favoritism for any creed. So he generously squared himself by promises of all the paint wanted and a brand new lawn besides. Then there was more rejoicing in Livermore. Rev. Arthur Hicks and Rev. M. H. Alexander, respectively guarding the Presbyterian and Methodist flocks, who have nice young wives coolly keeping house for them in pretty parsonages, and who are very popular in that community, shook hands with even more than customary cordiality on the street.

Not the Man.

[Washington Star.]

"Are you the editor?" he said, as he walked solemnly but fearless into the sanctum sanctorum without saying good morning, or observing any other of the usual amenities.

"I am," responded the editor, pretty much as if he were N. Bonaparte crossing the Alps.

"Well, they told me downstairs you was the man I wanted to see."

"If it is the editor you want, I'm the man. What is it you will have?"

The visitor sat down.

"Did you ever think you loved a woman harder than a mule can kick?" he inquired in a manner which indicated that the editor wouldn't hesitate to answer.

"Well," said the editor smiling, "I don't know that it is any of your business."

"Of course it ain't" the visitor responded quite unruffled. "But you must have. You look like a man that had the right feelings in him. I guess every man has, that is any kind of a man at all. Don't you?"

The visitor's manner was irresistible.

"Granted that I have," said the editor, "what has that got to do with what you are here for?"

"Did you ever marry a widder with 'leven children?' continued the visitor, without explanation.

"I never did," said the editor, heartily.

"Don't know nothin' about that sort of thing, do you?"

"Nothing whatever."

The visitor rose to go.

"Them people downstairs was mistaken," he said, briefly.

"What do you mean?" inquired the puzzled editor.

"They said I wanted to see the editor."

"Well, don't you?"

"No, sir. I'm looking for the man that's got a feller feelin' and can sympathies with me. You don't know the first principles. Good mornin', " and he walked out with as little ceremony as he had come in.

Girls Fight a Duel.

PARIS, May 30.—In addition to the duel in which Catulle Mendes was probably fatally wounded, news comes of a strange and unwonted fight between girls, Jeanne Le Roy and Juliette Volant. Involved in a quarrel over a lover, they went to a vacant lot in the outskirts of the city and fought with short knives, frightfully cutting each other's heads and breasts. They are in the hospital.

POLITICAL HISTORY.

Judge W. B. Fleming to Secretary Carlisle, Regarding the Former's Removal from Office.

As a matter of interest connected with Judge W. B. Fleming's race for Attorney General the letter below will revive an interesting bit of political history. Judge Fleming, it will be remembered, was removed from office the day after the election in 1895 for alleged offensive partisanship in making speeches for Bryan.

He addressed a letter of protest to Secretary Carlisle, which was published in the daily press of November 9, 1896. We reprint the letter to show to the Democracy of the State the treatment accorded Judge Fleming for his adherence to his party. Judge Fleming was one of the first martyrs to the cause of free coinage.

The letter reads:

"Hon. John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury:

"Sir—Our government guarantees to all its citizen the privilege of free speech, so that every American has the natural right to express in a proper manner his political opinions. In accepting office, the citizen forfeits neither his civil nor his religious liberty. The civil service law was intended not to destroy these rights, but to protect them, so that the minor official should be as secure in defending the creed and nominee of his party, as would be a Cabinet officer in exercising the same inalienable rights.

"No objection on your part to my activity in the campaign which has just closed was made known to me pending the campaign. On the contrary you informed me that you held to the view that you could not consistently remove any man from office for exercising the same rightswhen you yourself were exercising. My removal from office, the first intimation of which was obtained from the newspapers while on the train on my return to Washington from my home, therefore, was a complete surprise to me.

"No one knows better than yourself the long friendship I had manifested for you, the interest I had taken and the sacrifices of time and money made by me in promoting your ambitions. In view of these facts, it seems to me that I was at least entitled to some warning and notice before being kicked out of office.

"Had I known or suspected that I could not hold office under this administration, and at the same time exercise the rights of an American freeman, I would not have accepted office under it. I "learned in other ministers of the present administration, including many in your department, have been permitted to take an active part AGAINST Mr. Bryan in the campaign, not only on the stump, but in the work of organization, without rebuke or removal, it is evident that the cause of my offending lies not in my ACTIONS, but in my CONVICTIONS. It follows, therefore, that you have used your great power to suppress the freedom of thought and action and to punish those who dare to differ from you—a thing inexpportable in free government—by terrorizing over the weak and humble. For such conduct in public office, which is a public trust, you can not but be held accountable at the bar of public opinion.

"In conclusion, I will add that, humble as I am, I would rather be a discharged subordinate of the Treasury Department, discharged for doing my duty as I see it for my people, than to be Secretary of the Treasury, with the record of self stultification you have made for yourself staring me in the face.

"I am sorry to be compelled to deem it proper to make against your ungrateful, treacherous and tyrannous action.

"Very truly yours,
"W. B. FLEMING."

Big Day at Old Salem.

Dewey's Great Popularity.

Twenty-eight post-offices, in as many States, have been named Dewey, after the hero of Manila. This is only four less than those named after Washington.

Over 300 other applications are on the postal file.

Seventy new Tennessee offices have asked for the name.

Kentucky wants fifty and Alabama forty-five. Only one office in each State can bear the name. Out of the twenty-eight granted, two had been named before the battle of Manila.

If "Out of Sorts," cross and peevish, take Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. Cheerfulness will return and life acquires new zest. m

Women Serve as Oxen.

OTTAWA, May 27.—Capt. E. Hubbell, Dominion land surveyor, who has been for some time past engaged in surveying the land allotted to the Doukhobors in Manitoba, states that this class of immigrants will probably be settled soon 10,000 strong upon two sections of land, one containing 200 and the other 300 square miles. The Doukhobors have already erected a large number of houses and have invested to a considerable extent in farm stock. They have not formed themselves into villages as yet, being content to get the land under cultivation on the co-operative system.

Capt. Hubbell says that the women attach themselves to plows to assist in tilling the soil, and he has seen as many as six plows at one time breaking the ground in this fashion, having as many as twenty-two women harnessed to each of the plows, thus overcoming the handicap caused by lack of horses and cattle. The country, being well watered and wooded, is admirably adapted for grazing purposes, and the Doukhobors will probably turn the r attention to the cattle-raising branch of the farming business.

How to Ask a Blessing.

Every man of family—whether christian or not—should ask a blessing on the food at every meal. All he needs is a start, and the practice will afford much pleasure to himself and the whole family. It is a poor household, indeed, where thanks are not returned to the bountiful Giver of all good things. Some men give as an excuse that they do not know what to say. THE HERALD will help you out. Here are a few specimens, long and short. Select one, memorize it, say it at meal time, and you will never regret it. Take your choice of the following:

1. Let thy blessing, Almighty God, descend upon this portion of thy bounty, and on us, thy unworthy servants, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

2. Our Father in heaven, we beseech thee to pardon our sins, to bless the refreshments now before us, to our use, and us to thy service, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

3. Bountiful Giver of every good and perfect gift, then are never weary of supplying our returning wants. Grant us, we pray thee, that the food of which we are about to partake may contribute to the comfort and support of our bodies, and enable us to engage with more zeal in thy service. Which we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen

4. For what we are about to receive, O Lord, make us truly thankful for Jesus' sake. Amen.

5. We thank thee, O Lord, for this food. Sanctify it to our use and us to thy service for Jesus' sake. Amen.

6. O Lord, bless to our use this provision of thy bounty. Feed our souls with the Bread of Life, and accept us in Christ. Amen.

Wrong Office.

[Pearson's Weekly.]

Agent—My dear sir, do you know how much time you lose dipping a pen into the ink? Ten dips a minute means 600 dips an hour, 6,000 dips in ten hours, and each dip consumes—

Business Man—Yes, Yes, I know; I have worked it all out.

And yet I find you still writing in the old way!

Yes, I am using the fountain pen you sold me about a month ago—using it in the old way because it won't write any other.

Beg pardon; I am in the wrong office. Good day.

The lazy man of this country resorted to the meanest strategy on record to get his better half to dig up the garden. He sallied forth one morning with spade and hoe and after scrutching around awhile, came in to wash the dirt off a nickle and a dime; he had struck it rich. Back to the garden he went whistling "Sweet Marie." Directly he came in showing a quarter, saying he could afford to take a nap, having gained enough for one day, anyhow. When he awoke, Mollie had the whole plot of ground turned over—also a dozen brooches button. She don't know yet that the mine was salted.

Treat you in the finest style,
Dewey, come and see us!"

Invitations pouring in,
Dewey, come and see us!
Raising such a roaring din,
Dewey, come and see us!
Notables the very best,
North and South, and East and West—
George, dear, loosen up your vest,
Then come 'round and see us!

The Coming of Baby

brings joy or pain. It's for the mother to decide. With good health and a strong woman's organism, motherhood but adds to a woman's attractiveness.

McELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

takes away all terrors by strengthening the vital organs. It fits a mother for baby's coming. By revitalizing the nerve centers it has brought smiles through cowering youngsters to thousands of weak women who feared they were barren. It purifies, feeds, regulates and strengthens, and is good for all women at all times. No druggist would be without it. $1.00

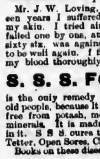
For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

MRS. LOUISA HALE, of Jefferson, Ga., says: "Wine of Cardui has done me more good than I ever thought any medicine could do. I was had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

NEVER TOO OLD TO BE CURED.

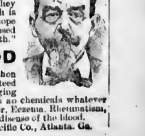
S. S. S. Is a Great Blessing to Old People. It Gives Them New Blood and Life.

Age does not necessarily mean feebleness and ill health, and nearly all of the sickness among older people can be avoided. Most elderly people are very susceptible to illness, but it is wholly unnecessary. By keeping their blood pure they can fortify themselves against the many troubles which crowd upon them, and so to escape three-fourths of the ailments from which they suffer so generally. S. S. S. is the remedy which will keep their systems young, by purifying the blood, thoroughly removing all waste accumulations, and imparting new strength and life to the whole body. It increases the appetite, builds up the energies, and sends new life-giving blood throughout the entire system.



Mrs. Sarah Price, 477 Brown ave., South Penton, writes: "I am seventy years old, and had not enjoyed good health for twenty years. I was sick in different ways, and in addition, had Eczema terribly on my legs. The doctor said that on account of my age, I would never be well again. I took a dozen bottles of S. S. S. and it cured me completely, and I am happy to say that I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Mr. J. W. Loving, of Colquitt, Ga., says: "For eighteen years I suffered tortures from a fiery eruption on my skin. I tried almost every known remedy, but they failed one by one, and I was told that my age, which is sixty years, was against me, and that I could never hope to be well again. I finally took S. S. S., and it cleansed my blood thoroughly, and now I am in perfect health."



S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

is the only remedy which can build up and strengthen old people, because it is the only one which is guaranteed free from potash, mercury, arsenic and other damaging minerals. It is made from roots and herbs, and has an chemicals whatever in it. S. S. S. cures the worst cases of Scrofula, Cancer, Eczema, Rheumatism, Tetter, Open Sores, Chronic Ulcers, Boils, or any other disease of the blood.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 31.

THE insurgents and the administration forces are now more evident in Kentucky Republican politics than in the Philippines.

INASMUCH as it is said that Mr. McKinley needs more physical exercise, it has been suggested that the President pick Alger up by the nape of his neck and seat of his pants and throw him out of the cabinet.

THE true state of Republican dissension in Kentucky has been evidenced during the past week in several county conventions held. Much bitterness was displayed, and the different factions showed they were spoiling for a scrap.

TWO STONES are now candidates for the nomination for Governor of the grand old State of Kentucky. And it is thought by some that whatever is caught between the upper and nether of these Stones in a political way, will be ground to powder.

EDITOR WALTON, of the Standford Interior Journal, says a kind subscriber presented him with some strawberries which, on account of their size, he has been palming off on the public as ripe tomatoes. We would be pleased to hear from Brer. Walton again when pumpkins get ripe in his section.

THE slimy serpent of discord and malice has raised its hydra head in the campaign of Judge C. J. Pratt, in the Republican nomination for Governor, and papers of his own party are rising and asking him where he was "at" in '96, and what he ever did, anyhow, for the grand old party. Verily, the path of the candidate is strewn with cactus leaves as big as blankets.

STATE AUDITOR SAM H. STONE has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. The Republicans now have three candidates for this place, the other two being Clifton J. Pratt and Attorney General Taylor. The two leading political parties in Kentucky are now evenly balanced in this matter, each having three candidates for the Governorship.

ONE of the biggest events of the season will be the meeting of the Bimetallic League in Louisville this week. Hon. W. J. Bryan will be on hand Friday and will deliver several addresses. The free silver hosts will be in much evidence, and it promises to be one of the greatest gatherings Louisville has had in recent years. An elaborate program has been prepared and all who attend will certainly enjoy the occasion.

THE informal election held in Hardin county recently to take the sense of the voters as to whether the roads of the county should be worked by taxation, resulted in a large majority—over two to one—in favor of the tax. A full account and synopsis of the proposed election appeared in THE HERALD about a month ago. Sixteen out of nineteen precincts in Hardin county voted in favor of the tax. Hardin county's lead in this matter is quite a recommendation to the plea of a tax for road purposes, and her action will no doubt be followed by other counties of the State. In these days and times the idea of getting something for nothing is beyond reason, and good roads, like every other good thing, cost money, though the expense is not near in proportion to the good they do.

THE American people are racking their brains for plans for suitable demonstrations to make in honor of Admiral Dewey when he returns. They are rather dubious about what the Admiral will say upon the presentation of the $250,000 residence property in Washington as a free will offering. Those who know the great commander well, say he will certainly reject it. A Chicago man who says he has been a classmate, roommate and shipmate of Admiral Dewey, in speaking of this matter, declares:

> "No one who ever knew this man as I have known him, would ever conceive or undertake to develop a plan for making him the star actor at a Chauncey Depew ovation exhibit, much less offer him the deed of a costly house in Washington. If the American people desire to honor and at the same time gratify the hero of the Spanish-American war, let their reception be cordial but not profuse, for he is peculiar almost to idiosyncrasy and as unartificial as he is brave and sensible."

THIS is commencement season and the different schools of the country are vieing with each other in the importance and magnitude of their annual exercises. To the graduating student it is a time of much moment. It is really the commencement of life in its highest, noblest sense. The toil and study of the school room give place to the sterner, more real duties of life, and the student finds himself confronted with a realization of the task for which he has been preparing. He need not suppose that his schooling has equipped him for a full, complete conception and performances of every duty of life that opportunities offer, nor that it will stand as a bulwark between himself and misfortunes and mistakes. He embodies in himself the solution of the problem of success or failure in life. But above all, he should never lose faith in himself. He should endeavor at all times to practice in his life that scriptural injunction, "Faith, hope and charity."

RECENTLY Gov. Bradley had occasion to leave Frankfort for a period of two weeks and during his absence Lieutenant-Governor Worthington acted in Mr. Bradley's place. Mr. Worthington is noted for his liberality in the matter of pardons, but this time he fairly outdid himself. During twelve days he issued thirty-two pardons to as many convicts. More than half of this number (18) were men who had taken the lives of their fellowmen, three were guilty of criminal assault and seduction, while the balance of the number were made up of men sent up for various offenses of a very serious nature. The acting Governor's too free use of the pardoning power is universally condemned. THE HERALD, along with many others, is among the first to sympathize with the poor unfortunates of the earth and the persecuted of mankind, but it does not seem compatible with reason that this large number of criminals should be liberated within so short a time. The decrees of justice should be upheld.

THERE is nothing of a public nature more badly needed at present than reform in our courts of justice and in the manner of punishing persons convicted of crime. Men guilty of the most heinous offenses escape with light sentences, while others sent up for a number of years—and sometimes for life—for provan crimes, are pardoned before their terms have half expired. The fate of notorious lawbreakers is often a mockery of justice and a matter of jest among the thoughtless and unconcerned, while the lovers of law and order are filled with disgust. The trouble and expense of holding court for a number of weeks is often set at naught at one fell swoop of the pen of the executive to whom is given the power to say who shall or who shall not remain behind prison bars. These are the things that are causing mobs to take the law into their own hands in order to be sure that the requirements of justice are not thwarted. And matters anent this subject will grow worse instead of better unless there is a decided change in the common mode of meting out justice.

MR. HARRY A. SOMMERS, editor of the Elizabethtown News, has been sued for criminal libel. The plaintiff is Judge H. W. Rives, of Lebanon, who takes as a basis for his suit an article which appeared in Sommers' paper of May 5, headed "A Political Conspiracy." The trouble all came up over the Sommers-Graves bribery case at Frankfort a few weeks ago, in which Graves exposed Charles Sommers, a brother of H. A. Sommers, in an alleged attempt to buy the proxies from Taylor county which Graves held in the Second district railroad convention. The editor of the News wrote an article in defense of his brother and excoriated those who aided in the prosecution by testifying against Charley Sommers, which included Judge Rives. In his affidavit Judge Rives quotes the language used in the News in regard to himself, which is as follows:

> "Next comes the gentleman (?) from Lebanon, one Rives, of whom Senator Blackburn said: 'When the devil prescribed, when the set spoke morality and when the demi-monde spoke of virtue, then Judge Rives could speak of political reform.' This man was the second participationist. Anybody who wants to know about Rives as a reformer, can go to the record of the Court of Appeals and see how near he came to being disbarred upon the dishonorable charge of altering the record. He is a very good running mate to Graves."

MR. CARNEGIE AND THE TARIFF.

Time and again have the Republican leaders assured us that the protective tariff was for the benefit of the masses. They have told us—and still tell us—that the wealthy manufacturers are not the especial benefactors of the protective tariff policy, but that it is the workingman whose interests it most enhances. And these Republican leaders have found many who believed them, in spite of the fact that this story has been often exploded by Democratic statesman and proven to be false by object lessons in the most notorious cases. But it remained for a leading paper of their own politics to give the whole thing away.

The public has been made quite familiar lately and in days gone by with Mr. Andrew Carnegie and his business. Mr. Carnigie, until he recently retired from business, was one of the wealthiest manufacturers in this country of steel plats, an article heavily protected by our tariff laws. He has made millions of dollars out of the business in a few years. In fact, out of this business alone he has amassed a princely fortune which he himself admits is between one hundred and fifty and two hundred millions of dollars, and concluded to retire from business and live in luxury and ease and in the performance of deeds of philanthropy the balance of his life.

Recently the Kansas City Journal, a stalwart Republican organ, has taken nota of Mr. Carnegie's actions, and has had somewhat to say in criticism of the erstwhile protected steel king. In commenting on Mr. Carnegie's ideas on imperialism, it is especially severe, and, like most Republican organs and leaders, does not seem inclined to grant this self-appointed philanthropist the prerogative of thinking and acting for himself. It is quite generally known that Mr. Carnegie himself is a zealous Republican, but like other men of his party, he has seen fit to take issue with the administration on the question of imperialism.

In speaking of Mr. Carnegie, the Journal, of the above mentioned city, continuing, says:

> To say nothing of the illogical character of Mr. Carnegie's utterances, as they are a protest against the inevitable results of the war with Spain, there has been no greater exhibition of INGRATITUDE than his attitude toward the Republican party and the present administration. Mr. Carnegie's great fortune was made possible and was amassed through the operation of the wise policies of the Republican party. PROTECTION HAS PROTECTED FEW MEN AS IT HAS PROTECTED ANDREW CARNEGIE in his particular line of business. President McKinley is one of the foremost protectionists of the present time. He has done much to build up the industrial life and enterprise of his country, and Andrew Carnegie is ONE OF THE GREATEST INDIVIDUAL BENEFICIARIES OF THE DOCTRINE OF PROTECTION. These facts, in themselves, do not, of course, bar the multi-millionaire from having opinions on public questions, but they should inspire a certain GRATITUDE that would prevent such intemperate and unjust attacks on the present administration and upon the party in power.
> Carnegie is entitled to little more consideration than Atkinson, the sectionist. In one sense, he is more to be despised, for with his malice there is mingled the basest INGRATITUDE.

And so, after all these long years of argument on the tariff question, pro and con, the public is relieved of any further anxiety in the matter by the utterances of a big-up, old-established Republican paper, whose editor is no doubt posted and knows what he is talking about. In its efforts to expose Mr. Carnegie's ingratitude, the Journal is refreshingly candid. It boldly asserts that the great steel manufacturer is "one of the greatest individual beneficiaries of the doctrine of protection."

Really, Mr. Republican—anybody of the faith—why should Mr. Carnegie be grateful? What has the Republican party done for him that he should show his gratitude? Haven't you told us all along that the tariff does not protect the manufacturer any more than anybody else, and if Mr. Carnegie put in a few hard licks and made a few millions of dollars—just like any other common citizen might do, as you say—why should he give thanks to the Republican party? According to your theory the employes of those big steel mills whose wages have been recently cut down and in some instances their jobs taken entirely away from them by reason of the great combine, are the ones who should give thanks and show their gratitude for the beneficent effects of a protective tariff.

The truthfulness of the Journal's remarks constitute the strongest condemnation that could be brought to bear upon the policy which has acted as a keynote of the party for which it stands as an organ.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and it therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Whole Family Burned.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 28.—Advices from Hardeeville, S. C., report the burning to death of Jacob Solomone, his wife and seven children in a fire which destroyed their house. The house was located on the Oestridge farm, near Hardeeville. It had been damaged by a storm, and the Solomons built fires on the floor to keep warm. It is supposed a fire, which was left smoldering after the family had retired, was fanned into a blaze and ignited the structure.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury in each case was that they came to their deaths through the culpable negligence of Jacob Solomons in failing to build a chimney.

A Combination.

LEBANON, KY., May 27.—The Republican convention here resulted in a double-barreled affair. No sooner had Maj. L. M. Dyra been elected chairman than the Taylor men proceeded to carry everything before them, instructing the delegates chosen to vote for their candidates first last and all the time.

When the convention adjourned the Stone and Pratt men assembled and held another convention, selecting their delegates and instructing them to vote half for Stone and half for Pratt and to throw all their strength to the one remaining in nomination after the other had fallen out.

Both conventions were red-hot.

A Fight Over Fish.

In a fight at Sherman, a village of a hundred people, lying on the Cincinnati Southern railroad, eight miles north of Williamstown, Ky., Saturday at noon, one man lost his life, another probably will lose a leg and a boy had a leg broken.

Sam Tapp is the station agent at Sherman. There is a lake at that place well supplied with fish. It is the property of the railroad people and Tapp claims they have authorized him to protect the fish in the lake. Marion Franks, a wealthy farmer, and his son Elmer were fishing there Saturday, and Tapp sent his brother James to learn who they were. James Tapp demanded their names in a rather rough manner and stated the purpose of the railroad company to prosecute all trespassers. The elder Franks told him that his brother was no gentleman or he would have given notice in a different manner to quit, and he would have done so.

Some words passed between the two, and Franks threw a stone at Tapp. Franks and his son quit fishing, however, and went back to the village, when the two Tapp boys came up, Sam with a forty-four Smith & Wesson revolver in his hand. He demanded of Elmer Franks if it was he who said he was no gentleman. Elmer declared it was not he, but his father. "He is a — — liar," said James Tapp. "He is the — — who said it." Elmer Franks then drew a knife and sprung at James, slashing him in the face and cutting an ugly gash. Sam Tapp leveled his revolver at Franks, but friends rushed between them.

The Tapp brothers then walked around the depot, and Franks and his son started the other way. They had gone ten feet, when James Tapp appeared from behind the depot and fired on them. He fired five times, emptying his revolver. The first shot struck Albert Clements, a butcher, in the leg below the knee. The next struck Robert Lemon, the ten-year old son of E. F. Lemon, in the leg, inflicting a painful wound. Two of the bullets took effect in the body of Elmer Franks, for whom they were intended. One struck him in the back, severing the spine. He will die.

Tapp came to town and surrendered. He claims he shot in self-defense. County Judge J. H. Westover fixed his bond at $5,000, which he has so far failed to give.

Franks was married last month to Miss Amy Spillman, and is related to nearly everybody in the county.

McHENRY, KY.

[Special to THE HERALD.]

May 27th.—It has been some time since a letter from our town has appeared in the columns of your interesting paper. To prove we are still alive and thriving, regardless of all the complimentary remarks the Colonel has been passing on us, we concluded this week to give a few of the happenings of our town.

We are not dead socially, as the pleasant receptions given by different members of our town hundred proves. On May nineteenth Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kelly entertained in honor of their nephew, Mr. Wm. Kelly, May nineteenth Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Christian invited a few of their friends in to spend the evening. The music could not be surpassed. The ice cream and cake were the best. The guests left about midnight feeling that it was indeed an honor to be among the invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Christian's home. On Monday night, May 22, Mr. and Mrs. William Christian gave a reception to their nieces, Misses Mayme and Nettie Duncan, of Greenville, and nephew, Mr. Wm. Kelly. All of us were there and we certainly spent a pleasant evening. About 9:30 we were invited to the dining room which was beautifully and tastefully decorated with roses and vines. After being served with cream and cake the party of young people again returned to the parlor and amidst pleasant games and sweet music, the time passed quickly by. I feel confident I voice the sentiments of all when I say Misses Jennie and Nettie Christian know how to make a company of young people have a good time and we thank them for a pleasant memory.

Rev. Edwards, of Lonisville, is with us and will preach at the Presbyterian church here two Sundays in each month until further notice. He seems to be an energetic worker and we hope he will do much good among us.

We regret to say our night operator, Mr. N. S. Brooks, has left us for our neighboring town, Beaver Dam. We notice the waiting rooms are not so closely kept for his absence. Mr. Brooks and Solo are mighty clever fellows, but do not seem to care if the ladies do get their dresses dusty when waiting for a train.

Quite a number of our citizens have been vaccinated within the past few weeks. Am afraid sore arms will soon be the fashion. If so we were behind enough to have some sweet, pretty nurse to give us our medicine, the arm would heal all too quickly.

The two sermons preached at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening were well delivered and held forth a great many truths it would help all of us to follow.

Misses Maggie Duncan and Grace Roll went to Hartford one day last week. Little Mary Elizabeth Felix returned with them to spend a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. A. Duncan.

Mrs. R. P. Miller and children are visiting here.

The Ladies Tea met at the residence of Mr. C. W. Taylor Friday, May 26. Those who were there report a lovely time. Cake and iced tea were served.

Miss Grace Roll will leave Wednesday to visit relatives and friends in Louisville, and attend the commencement of Bellwood Seminary, Anchorage, Ky. She will be gone several weeks.

Why do some people, in redeeming a forfeit, refuse to do what they are told? Why are there so many vacant chairs at our church services?

Why do some men get mad and try to hit preachers with hymn books when they do not even know who they are aiming at?

Why can't we have a good choir. We have the material. Why does the local editor of the Glasgow paper not put in happenings at the Kelly home? Why didn't more of our people go to hear Jesse Jones? Why does Dave go to Beaver Dam every Sunday? Why does Charley Childs go up the road every Sunday and why does he inquire for mail so frequently during the week? Wanted—All persons to know we are alive and progressive. That we have more pretty girls here than in any other town the same size in "Old Kentuck." That for good goods for little money call on any of our merchants. For sticking plasters, round or square, call on Oscar.

Health for ten cents. Cascarets make the bowels and kidneys act naturally, destroy microbes, cure headache, biliousness and constipation. All druggists. tf

[Special to THE HERALD.]

Mr. T. C. Hosey has visited in Butler county recently.

"Aunt Nancy" Keown, who has been very sick for the last few days, is thought to be some better at this writing.

Mr. Thomas Shields and Miss Gertruda Douglas, of the Oak Grove neighborhood, were quietly married at the home of the bride the 21st inst.

Rev. W. H. White preached at New Zion church yesterday at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs J. J. Stewart visited relatives in Beaver Dam Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Sanders, of Evansville, Ind., who formerly lived near this place, was buried at the Stewart's burying ground last Wednesday. Sanders was shot by his father-in-law, who lives near Evansville, Ind. It seem that Sanders and his wife had separated and she had gone to her father's, when Sanders went to secure his children. His father-in-law advised him not to come into his house and when he came on, the old man shot him.

Quite an interest is being taken in the decoration exercises which will take place at Balesteen to-morrow.

THE HERALD has turned out some excellent printing of late, but none to excel the annual catalogue of Hartford College, just completed. It is a fine piece of work for a most worthy institution of learning.

Messrs. Shelby Taylor, E. T. Miller, C. M. Barnett, W. H. Barnes, B. D. Ringo, C. M. Crowe and Dr. E. W. Ford left Monday for Morton's Landing, where they will spend several days hunting and fishing.

Mr. C. J. Lawton, of Bickwell, Ind., who has been visiting relatives at South Carrollton, arrived in Hartford yesterday. He, in company with Mr. R. A. Crow, will leave to-morrow for Bickwell, where the latter will make his future home.

Mrs. Lucy Klein and granddaughter, little Marie Collings, Miss Mary Klein, Mrs. R. A. Crowe and two children, Mrs. J. E. Timon, of Cowbrook City, and Messrs. Kelley & Sharp, of Kelley's Camp, were passengers from Hartford on the last trip of steamer Soloto to Evansville.

Dunning is not a pleasant business with us, but there are some of our subscribers who are very slow pay. We kindly ask those persons to remember that it costs money—much of it—to run a newspaper, and we would be pleased if they would at once remit a part if not all of what they owe. We are needing what is due us, else we would not write these lines.

Mr. John B. Stevens, of Echols, who was taken suddenly very ill last Saturday, was no better when heard from yesterday afternoon. Our information is that he took with a severe chill and has gradually grown worse ever since. It is thought that he has the much dreaded disease, spinal meningitis. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stevens, are at his bedside.

A GREAT CHANCE.—We will send THE HERALD and the Louisville Daily Dispatch to any address one year for $4.00, or we will send THE HERALD and Daily and Sunday Dispatch one year for $5. Money cash in advance or renewals of old subscriptions and one year in advance. This is the greatest offer ever made—eight papers a week, 416 papers, for only five dollars. Discriminating persons will not fail to take advantage of it.

The following marriage license have been issued from the County Clerk's office recently: Sidney Bozarth to Lena N. Chapman, R. B. White to C. Bella Graham, Gentry Davis to Rose Ashmire, Thomas Shields to Gertrude Douglass, E. M. Taylor to Ada C. Johnson, Hardin Daugherty to Paulina M. Gary, N. J. Hall to Mary Thornton, E. E. Bratcher to Laura Belle Park, Leslie Johnson to Katie Bozarth, Morrison Daher to Eva Reynolds, James Gillans to Minnie Sanders, W. M. Benson to Maudie Carter, J. F. Aldridge to Julia A. Miller.

Invitations have been issued to the annual commencement exercises of West Kentucky College, South Carrollton, Ky. The exercises will begin on Sunday, June 4, at 11 o'clock, when the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. I. W. Bruner. The annual concert will be given Monday, June 5, at 8 p. m., and an exhibition of elocution and Delsarte on Tuesday evening. The graduating exercises will take place on Wednesday evening, and the baccalaureate address will be delivered by Hon. Wm. C. P. Breckinridge, of Lexington. The graduates are Miss Jessie Taylor, Messrs. Shepherd Young and Sep Taylor.

The annual commencement exercises of Hartford College and Business Institute will take place this week. This has been a splendid year for this well known institution of learning. The old-time prosperity of Hartford College—which for a time was interrupted on account of unfortunate circumstances—has returned, and no school of the country now affords a more thorough system of training or a better chance to acquire a profitable education. Hartford College has always been the pride of Hartford and Ohio county, and it stands to-day in the highest estimation of the people of this whole section of country. The next session, which opens in the fall—catalogues now out—promises to be the most successful in its history.

Smallpox.

Quite a smallpox scare was precipitated at McHenry, Ky., a few days ago by the discovery of a number of negroes who were supposed to have the disease. There is considerable discussion among the doctors, however, as to whether it is really smallpox or not. It is quite generally agreed that if it is smallpox, it is of a very mild type. Several doctors have been sick and have gotten well of the disease, whatever it is, and those who are yet ill are hardly confined to their rooms. There has been no rush among the people here at Hartford—such as only a few miles from McHenry—to be vaccinated. Some persons say they would prefer having the disease to being vaccinated, if it is in no worse form than the doctors describe it.

The Ohio county board of health, composed of Drs. E. W. Ford, S. J. Wedding, Hartford, and Dr. J. S. Smith, McHenry, met at the latter place Friday and as a precaution, isolated the five cases there. Health officer, Dr. S. D. Taylor, Beaver Dam, together with Drs. Taylor and Nall, Cromwell, and Dr. Innes, Hamilton mines, went to Taylor Mines last Saturday on the solicitation of the citizens of that place and after examining some ten or twelve patients in four different families, ordered the premises under quarantine and the County Judge appointed a man who has had the disease and gotten well, to look after the needs of the isolated families. We are informed that the local agent of the I. C. railroad at McHenry has been directed by the authorities of said road not to sell any darkey at McHenry a ticket on the railroad until the disease subsides.

I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have used all kinds of medicines for it. At last I found one remedy that has been a success as a cure, and that is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. —P. E. Graham, Gem Mills, La. For sale by Z. Program for Friday evening, June 2: Music. Invocation—Rev. Silas Newton. Commencement Address—Prof. M. H. Shands. Conferring Degrees, etc. —Prof. M. H. Rhoads. Music. Class 1899—Florence Morton, B. S., Hartford, Ky.; Laura Morton, B. S., Hartford, Ky.; Fenton M. Sanger, B. S., Sanco, Ala. Graduate—Fenton M. Sanger, A. M., Sanco, Mo.

Saloons to Go.

At the last term of court, just closed, Judge Owen decided the saloon case which he took under advisement at the November term, in favor of the "drys." It will be remembered that the saloon men contested the last election, which was carried by a majority against them, on the grounds that the polls were not legal voting places, although they were the same that had been used for years past, during which time the saloons were voted in.

The license of Rial & Baltzell on Market street and Bean & Co., who run a saloon on Union street, will expire in a week or two, but Nall, near the post-office and Hudson, at the Hartford House, will hold on until the first of September.

It is not thought that the saloon men will take their case to the Court of Appeals. Such a procedure costs money, and they are not making so much money now—too many of them for the size of the town. Hertford will soon be without saloons and it will probably be a long while before they are voted in again.

Has Enough of Army Life.

Mr. Henry Godshaw, of Beda, Ohio county, who has just completed three years' service as a private in the Sixth Infantry of the regular army, arrived in Owensboro Thursday en route home, says the Owensboro Messenger. The Sixth infantry was in the Santiago fight and lost quite a number of men. For the past seven months the regiment has been at San Antonio, Tex., but several days ago was ordered to San Francisco, and on Monday last sailed from that place on the transport Sherman for Manila. Earl Bennett, another Beda boy, who was in the Santiago fight as a private in the Sixteenth Infantry, went with the Sixth to Manila. When the Sixteenth returned from Cuba, Bennett received an honorable discharge and afterward enlisted in the Sixth. Godshaw had the opportunity of re-enlisting and going to Manila, but he had served his three-year period of enlistment and says he has enough of army life for awhile.

Freedom of the Press.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

There are many who hold that liberty after a time corrupts itself into license and that the day may come when we will have reason to regret the unrestrained manner in which the newspaper has been conducted. This, however, is a problem which time alone can develop and solve. Meanwhile it is worth reflecting that the freedom of the newspaper means the freedom of the people, and as long as we have confidence in the bonds of rationalism, it is not in order to fear for the events of the future.

Mrs. Nannie Brown, of Whitesville, who has been in Lewisville the last two months under treatment, has returned home and is visiting friends and relatives at Walnut Grove.

The wedding bells are expected to ring in this vicinity in the near future.

Miss Alice Milligan and brother, Henry, attended church at Walnut Grove Sunday evening.

Messrs. Willie Miller and Homer Milligan attended the party at Dr. Delle Hayne's Saturday night.

The little son of Mr. Oscar Haynes, who was badly burned while visiting in Owensboro last week, is improving.

One of the most entertaining articles of the month is "The Century's Progress in Scientific Medicine," by Henry Smith Williams, M. D., in Harper's Magazine for June. The author describes in detail the great invention and discoveries in medical science during the last century. The most important were the discovery of the percussion method of diagnosing chest diseases, of vaccination, of ether, of bacteria, and of antiseptics. Doctor Williams's article is well worth reading.

Ninety-five Years of Age.

LEITCHFIELD, KY., May 28.—Mrs. Mahala Dunn, widow of Moses Dunn, died of general debility, due to old age, last night at the residence of her son, Mr. J. V. Dunn, four miles from town. Mrs. Dunn was probably the oldest woman in the county, being in her ninety fifth year. Besides several children, she leaves many grand and great-grandchildren and numerous relatives throughout the county.

Mrs. Janie Renfrow met with a very painful accident some days ago, by tramping on a needle and sticking it in her toe.

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of the remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house. —J. L. Moore, South Bargaintown, Pa. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggists, Hartford, Ky. m

"No Hope; Almost Gone; Good-Bye."

CAPT. HENRY, Va., May 27.—S. L. Dodger, Weather Bureau Observer at Hatteras, N. C., reports that a bottle was picked up on the beach to-day near the Chicomlocomico Life Saving Station, 30 miles north of Hatteras, in which was found the following letter:

"Stormy all day; both masts gone. Very little hope. Going to pieces rapidly; almost gone; no hope. Good-by. Ship VINE; crew eight men.

CAPTAIN CARTER."

The letter contained no date, no latitude or longitude, and nothing to indicate when the bottle was thrown overboard. It appeared to have been in the water a long time.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

The Nichols-Shepard

TRACTION ENGINE

Nothing that helps to make a perfect road and thresher engine has been left out or slighted in the construction of the Nichols-Shepard Traction Engine. Everything has been done that science, skill and experience could suggest to add to its effectiveness, power, durability and safety from explosion and fire. The boiler is of the very best selected steel, thoroughly well made and provided with every approved safety appliance. The fire-box is surrounded by water—top, bottom and sides. The draft-damper is so made that sparks and ashes can't drop out, and the smoke-stack is fitted with patented bonnet and spark-arrester. Every part is strong, durable and is thoroughly tested.

Detailed descriptions and many illustrations of the Nichols-Shepard Traction Engine and of the Nichols-Shepard Separator and other threshing machinery are contained in large catalog—mailed free.
